Distance : 0.3 km • Walking Time : 5 mins

At 36 metres above Henderson Road, Henderson Waves is the highest pedestrian bridge in Singapore. It was built to connect Mount Faber Park to Telok Blangah Hill Park.

The bridge has a unique wave-form made up of seven undulating curved steel "ribs" that alternately rise over and under its deck. The curved "ribs" form alcoves that function as shelters with seats within.

Slats of yellow balau wood, an all-weather timber found in South-East Asia, are used in the decking. Look out for carvings on the slats marking the height you are at on various points along the bridge.

The wave-forms will be lit with attractive LED light from 7pm to 2am daily, giving the bridge an illuminative glow.

The bridge's wave-form was derived from a mathematical formula.

Artfully-placed lights along the bridge create a stunning sight at night.

Marang Trail

Distance : 0.8 km • Walking Time : 15 mins

This trail extends from Marang Road, just behind the Harbourfront MRT Station to the cable car station on Mount Faber. Mount Faber is the second highest hill in Singapore at 105 metres above mean sea level.

An easy walk of steps and shaded footpaths through secondary forest, Marang Trail covers an elevation of 70 metres (or the equivalent of a 24-storey building).

Black and White bungalows, some which are abandoned and used for social events, dot the area.

The Marang Trail obtained its name from the Marang fruit, more commonly known as Ashley Oak.

Faber Walk

Faber Walk meanders through Mount Faber Park, one of the oldest parks in Singapore, and ends at the Henderson Waves. The slopes of this 56-hectare park are covered by dense secondary rain forest, and are home to many interesting plants and fauna.

At its peak, the park offers panoramic views of the southern part of Singapore and the Southern Islands. At night, the park transforms into one of the more romantic spots on the island, where people can enjoy a breathtaking sight of the city's twinkling lights and ships at sea.

Faber Point is the highest point in the park.

Cable cars are a fun way to get to Sentosa Island.

Hilltop Walk

Hilltop Walk runs through the 34-hectare Telok Blangah Hill Park, once a gathering place for trading communities that flourished in the area in the early nineteenth century. The trail connects on one end with the Henderson Waves and the other with the Forest Walk leading to Alexandra Arch.

Alkaff Mansion, a conserved building, was built in 1918 by Syed Abdul Rahman Alkaff, a prominent trader from Yemen.

The Terraced Gardens at the top of the park offer a stunning 360-degree view of Singapore.

Forest Walk

Distance : 1.3 km • Walking Time : 20 mins

The Forest Walk, a steps-free elevated walkway with earth trails, meanders some 50 metres through the secondary forest of Telok Blangah Hill and connects to Alexandra Arch. The raised walkway, with heights ranging from 3 to 18 metres, brushes the canopy of trees and offers a bird's eye view of the forest. The modules of the elevated walkway derived their design from the triangular-shaped leaves of the fast-growing "Mile-a-Minute" plant.

The ground level earth trails offer a more rugged experience, bringing you closer to the wildlife found in the area.

The steps-free elevated walkway zig-zags through steep slopes of hilly terrain.

The shoots of the "Mile-a-Minute" plant have been reported to grow up to 27 millimetres a day.

Alexandra Arch
